Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

2.4

GPA, above 41 of the 98 other time tracking apps we grade

All Hours, from the workforce software company Spica, records working time and attendance through a web app, a mobile app and clocking terminals. It adds shift scheduling, absence management, overtime tracking, custom accrual rules and payroll exports. Pricing is a single per-user rate with no feature tiers.

> From our grade for ease of use

To get you started, here are 9 things to know about All Hours, taken from its own pages and our grades.

1 Best for clocking in by phone, web or terminal

Terminals aren't in that price, accounts under five users pay for five, and no specific payroll integrations are named.

2 Paid plans start at about $3.35 a month for each person

As its pricing page puts it: €3 per user / month, billed annually (€3.50 billed monthly).

3 You can try it first

14-day free trial, no credit card required

4 It runs on Web

Web.

5 Flexible clocking

Clock in by mobile app, web app or terminal, with geolocation, geofencing and Bluetooth beacon options.

6 Staff scheduling

Plan shifts, manage availability and reduce scheduling conflicts alongside the time records.

7 Absences and overtime

Handle time-off requests, approvals and balances, and review and approve overtime.

8 A 2.4 GPA, above 41 of 98

That is against the other time tracking apps we grade, on value, the free plan, features, ease of use and platforms.

9 Keep it

To replace All Hours you would be making payroll taxes worked out and filed with the government for you. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

Who All Hours is for

- ✓ Fits if you run a shop or site with a terminal on the wall
- ✓ Works for teams that need accrual rules to match local labour law

Who it is not for

- ✗ Tight if you are under five people, since you pay the five-user price (€15 a month)
- ✗ Pricey if you want terminals, as hardware and ID cards cost extra
- ✗ Skip it if you want a named payroll link, because only a REST API is listed
- ✗ Watch out: archived users still count until exported and removed, and prices are in euros

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ Companies that need clocking terminals as well as mobile and web
- ✓ Teams outside the US that price in euros and use payroll exports
- ✓ Businesses wanting one per-user rate with all features

Worth knowing

- ⓘ Pricing is in euros; accounts under five users are billed at the five-user price.
- ⓘ Archived users are counted in the subscription until they are exported and permanently removed.
- ⓘ Terminals (clock lease or purchase), ID cards and deployment are not in the subscription price.
- ⓘ The site names no specific payroll or HR integrations, only pre-built ones in general and a REST API.

PART 04 · STANDING

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

41/98

Other time tracking apps it is graded above

All Hours's GPA of 2.4 is higher than 41 of the 98 other time tracking apps we grade, and level with 24.

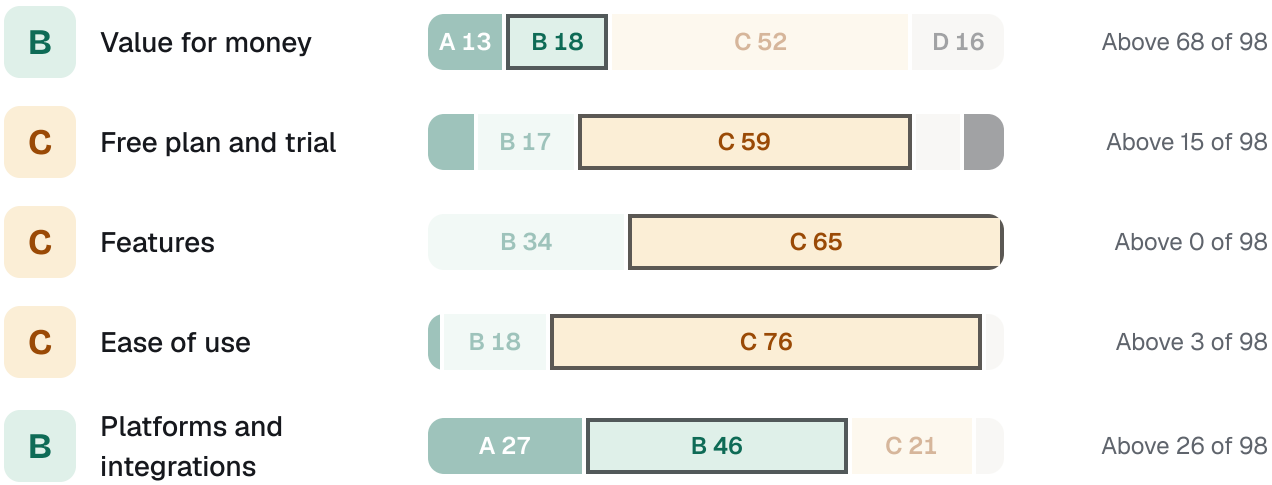

It stands best on value for money (B, above 68 of 98) and worst on features (C, above 0).

Its paid plans start at about $3.35 a month for each person, against a middle price of $6.99 for the category: 9 of the 80 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 4 tools score higher and cost less.

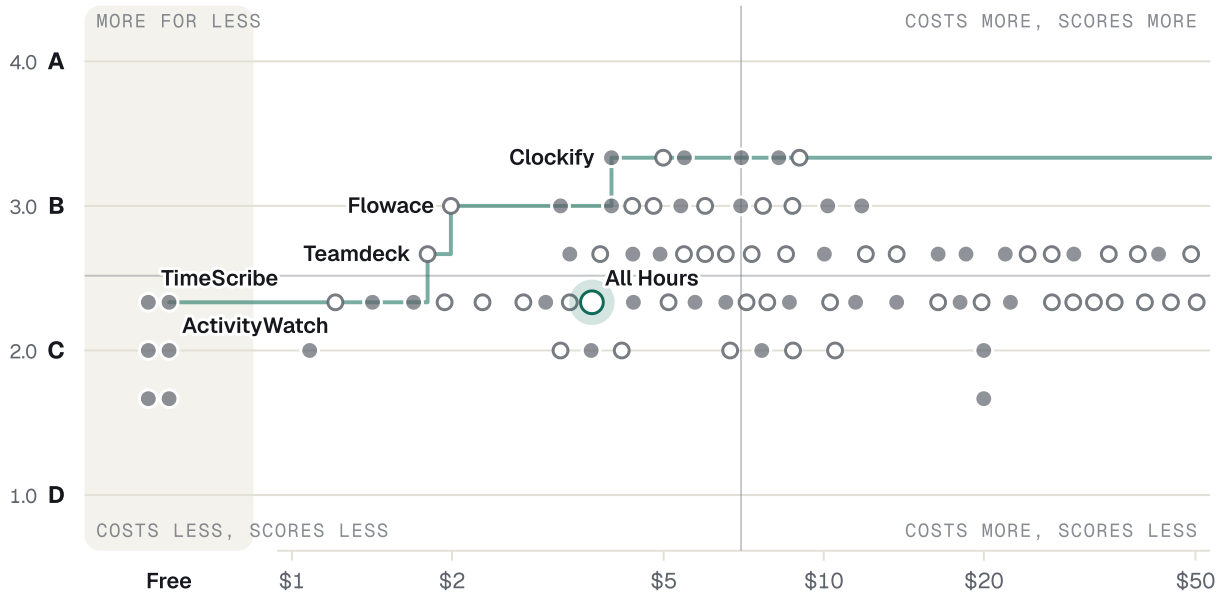

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 99 time tracking apps we grade, cut by the letter each got. All Hours's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 87 time tracking apps. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. All Hours is the marked dot.

What paid plans start at, a month (each step along is roughly double)

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

To replace All Hours you would be making payroll taxes worked out and filed with the government for you. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

It costs $40.22 a year.

What you could make

- Time tracking, time off and reports: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- Payroll taxes worked out and filed with the government for you.

- Clocking in from a phone, checked against where and when.
- A rota the whole staff sees on their phones, with swaps and alerts.
- It is priced for each person, which means accounts and billing for a team.
- It plugs into other products, Azure Active Directory among them, and has an API.
- What a company asks for before it lets staff use something: single sign-on.

What this rests on. All Hours's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
