Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

61/66

Other read-later and bookmark apps it is graded above

Booky's GPA of 3.2 is higher than 61 of the 66 other read-later and bookmark apps we grade, and level with 5.

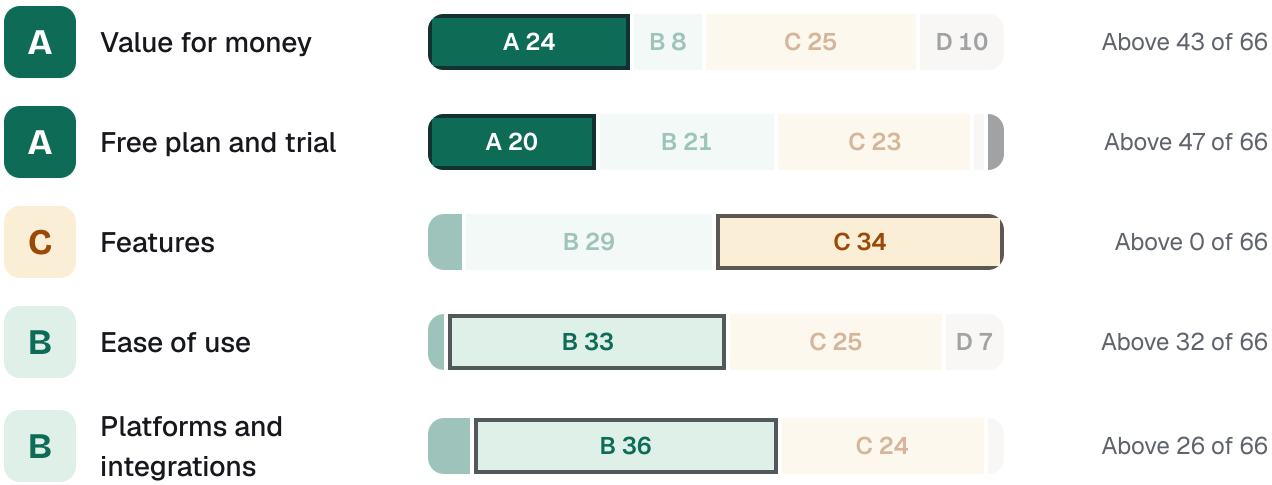

It stands best on free plan and trial (A, above 47 of 66) and worst on features (C, above 0).

Its paid plans start at about $2.23 a month, against a middle price of $3.33 for the category: 6 of the 37 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.7 out of 4. Nothing scores higher for less, though at least one tool matches that score at a lower price.

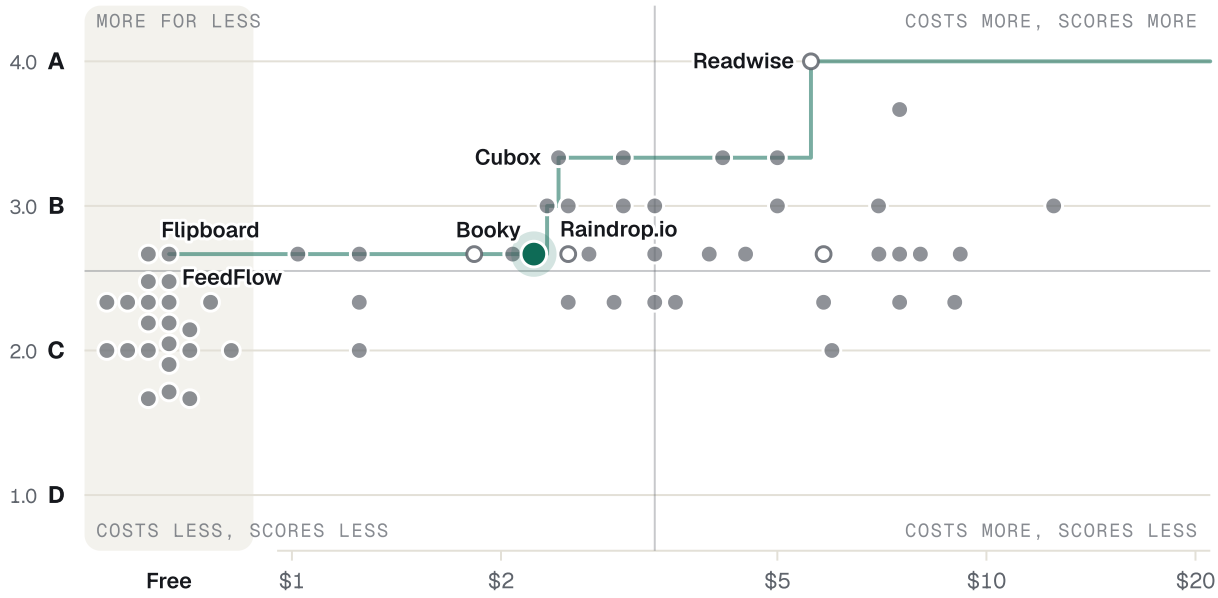

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 67 read-later and bookmark apps we grade, cut by the letter each got. Booky's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 60 read-later and bookmark apps. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Booky is the marked dot.

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Your call

A read-later list at its plainest is saved links with tags.

You could make the core of Booky for yourself: bookmarks and web clipper. What you would give up is listed below. Whether that is worth the price is your call. At $26.81 a year it costs less than the weekend it would take to replace, which is the argument for keeping it.

What you could make

- Bookmarks and web clipper: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- Apps for Windows, iOS and Android that stay in step with each other.

What this rests on. Booky's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
