Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

1.8

GPA, above 2 of the 86 other docs and wiki tools we grade

Bump.sh publishes API documentation portals from OpenAPI, AsyncAPI and Arazzo files, with changelogs, version diffs and branch previews. It also sells a managed MCP platform that turns an organization's APIs into MCP servers. Plans are priced per month by the number of API docs and MCP tools.

To get you started, here are 9 things to know about Bump.sh, taken from its own pages and our grades.

> You connect your API files through the CLI or GitHub, so there is setup work.
> From our grade for ease of use

1 Best for API documentation from OpenAPI files

Bump.sh publishes API docs from OpenAPI, AsyncAPI and Arazzo files, with changelogs and version diffs.

2 Paid plans start at $50 a month

As its pricing page puts it: $50 per month.

3 You can try it first

14-day free trial on the Pro plan

4 It runs on Web

Web.

5 Specification support

Reads OpenAPI, AsyncAPI and Arazzo documents, and OpenAPI Overlays.

6 Doc portals and hubs

Publishes API reference pages and a hub that groups several APIs, with unified search.

7 Changelog and diffs

Detects breaking changes between versions, shows previews, and on Pro writes an automatic changelog.

8 A 1.8 GPA, above 2 of 86

That is against the other docs and wiki tools we grade, on value, the free plan, features, ease of use and platforms.

9 Keep it

The plain part of Bump.sh you could make: documents and reports. What surrounds it you could not. The 2 things listed below take a company, not a weekend.

The report card

Best for API documentation from OpenAPI files

Bump.sh publishes API docs from OpenAPI, AsyncAPI and Arazzo files, with changelogs and version diffs. But Basic at $50 a month caps you at 10 API docs and 3 internal users, and the API Explorer, branches and automatic changelog need Pro at $120.

TOOLGPA REPORT CARD	Bump.sh	Graded Nov 13, 2026
SUBJECT	GRADE	COMMENT
Value for money	D	$50 a month for Basic and $120 for Pro against a category that starts at $7 and has a middle of $19; the features most people want sit on Pro.
Free plan and trial	D	14-day free trial on Pro. The pages read don't say whether a card is needed, and there is no free plan.
Features	C	Doc portals, changelogs, diffs and a CLI. The listing shows gaps on Basic: API Explorer, branches and automatic changelog are Pro only.
Ease of use	C	No store rating on record. You connect your API files through the CLI or GitHub, so there is setup work.
Platforms and integrations	B	Web product with GitHub and Slack integrations and a public API. No desktop or phone app is named.
Grade point average		Weak, out of 4.0 1.8

An A is worth 4 points, a B 3, a C 2, a D 1 and an F nothing. The GPA is the average of the five.

Who Bump.sh is for

- ✓ Fits if you keep OpenAPI or AsyncAPI files and want a published portal with a changelog
- ✓ Works for API teams that also want to turn their APIs into MCP servers

Who it is not for

- ✗ Skip it if you want a free plan, because there isn't one and the trial is on Pro
- ✗ Tight if you're on Basic: 10 API docs, 3 internal users and 20 guests
- ✗ Pricey if you need API Explorer, branches or release rollback, which are all Pro at $120
- ✗ Watch out: SSO and embed mode need the sales-only plan, and the pricing page shows monthly prices only

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ Teams that keep an OpenAPI or AsyncAPI file in version control
- ✓ API providers that want version diffs and a changelog
- ✓ Companies exposing APIs to AI agents through MCP

Worth knowing

- ⓘ The cheapest plan has no free tier and caps at 10 API docs, 3 internal users and 20 guests.
- ⓘ API Explorer, branches management, automatic changelog and release rollback are Pro only.
- ⓘ Removing the 'Powered by Bump.sh' mark, custom CSS and JS, SSO and embed mode are not on Basic or Pro; SSO and embed need the sales-only plan.
- ⓘ The pricing page shows monthly prices only.

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

2/86

Other docs and wiki tools it is graded above

Bump.sh's GPA of 1.8 is higher than 2 of the 86 other docs and wiki tools we grade, and level with 3.

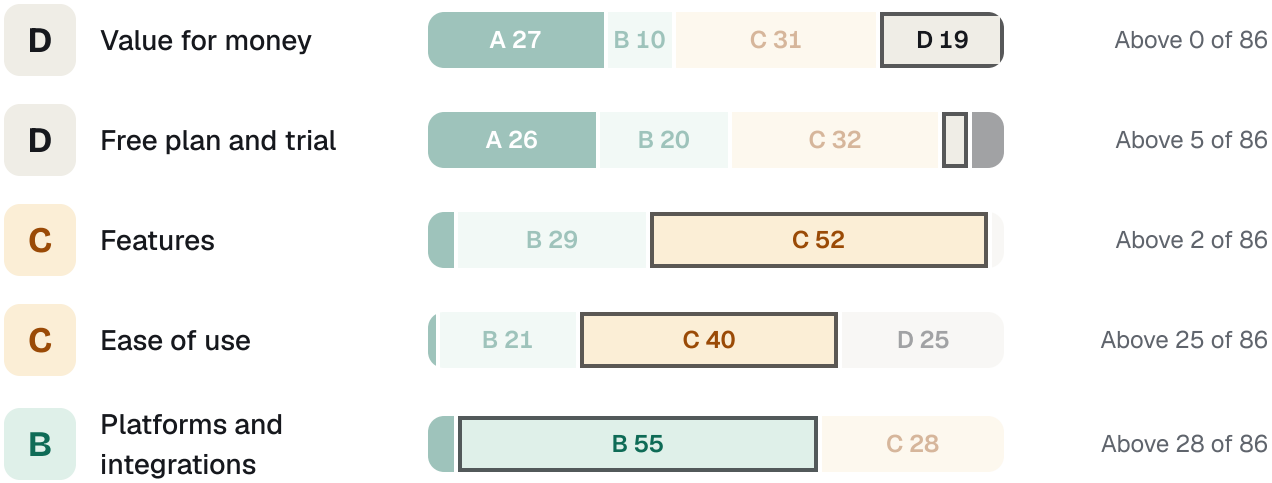

It stands best on platforms and integrations (B, above 28 of 86) and worst on value for money (D, above 0).

Its paid plans start at $50 a month, against a middle price of $18.50 for the category: 38 of the 57 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 25 tools score higher and cost less.

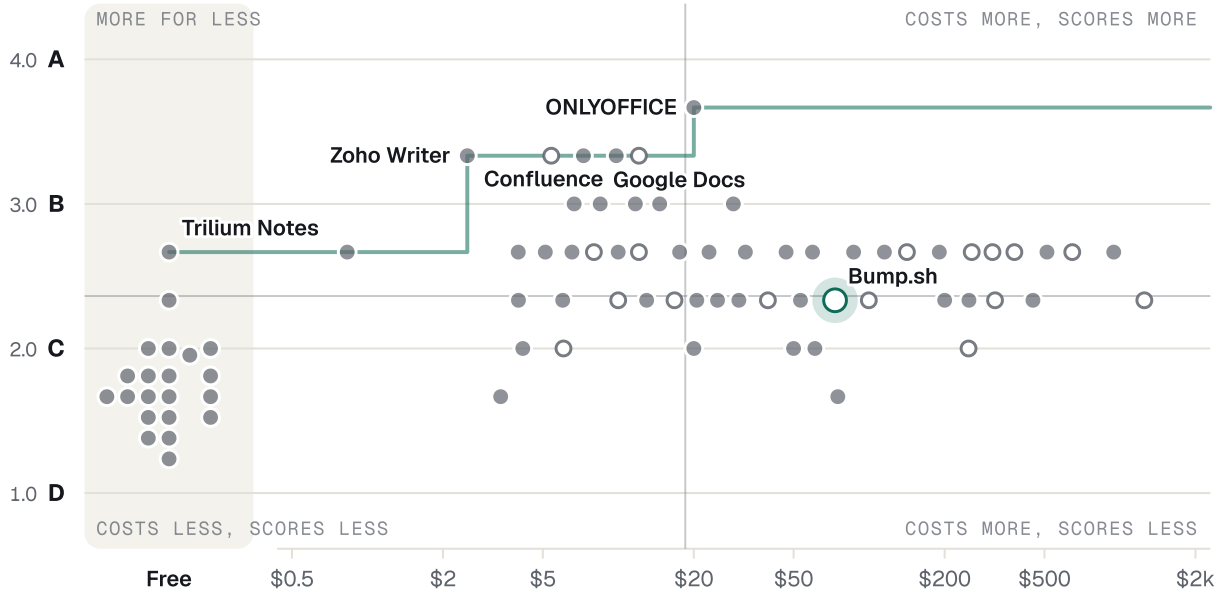

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 87 docs and wiki tools we grade, cut by the letter each got. Bump.sh's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 79 docs and wiki tools. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Bump.sh is the marked dot.

What paid plans start at, a month (each step along is roughly double) ⍰

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

The plain part of Bump.sh you could make: documents and reports. What surrounds it you could not. The 2 things listed below take a company, not a weekend.

That makes this kind of software worth paying for, not this one in particular: 81 of the 86 other docs and wiki tools grade higher. It costs $600 a year.

What you could make

- Documents and reports: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- It plugs into other products, GitHub, Slack and OpenAPI among them, and has an API.
- AI features, unless you pay a model provider for each request yourself.

What this rests on. Bump.sh's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
