Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

2.4

GPA, above 18 of the 75 other daily planner apps we grade

DayBoost is a daily planner and to-do list for iPhone and Android. Each task can be given a start time and a length, so the list becomes a timeline of the day. The core planner is free, and a Pro upgrade adds repeating tasks, the week view and focus blocks.

To get you started, here are 9 things to know about DayBoost, taken from its own pages and our grades.

> Repeating tasks, the week view and focus blocks need Pro, and there is no sync between devices.

TOOLGPA REPORT CARD

DayBoost

Graded Nov 13, 2026

SUBJECT	GRADE	COMMENT
Value for money	C	The lowest in-app price is $5.99, the middle of daily planners, but the Google Play listing gives no billing period.
Free plan and trial	B	The timeline, Inbox, tasks and reminders are free, which a person could live on.
Features	C	One timeline, time blocks, reminders and focus blocks do the basics, but repeating tasks and the week view are Pro.
Ease of use	B	A phone app you install and start using with no account and nothing to set up, and no store rating on record.
Platforms and integrations	C	iPhone and Android only, with no web, Mac or Windows version.

Grade point average — Fair, out of 4.0 2.4

An A is worth 4 points, a B 3, a C 2, a D 1 and an F nothing. The GPA is the average of the five.

Who DayBoost is for

- ✓ Fits if you plan your day on a phone and want it on one timeline
- ✓ Works for people who do not want to make an account

Who it is not for

- ✗ Tight if you repeat tasks, as repeating tasks, the week view and daily review are Pro
- ✗ Not for you if you use a computer, as it is phones only
- ✗ Watch out: tasks are stored on the phone with no sync mentioned
- ✗ Watch out: the Pro trial length is not stated, and Google Play shows a $5.99 to $34.99 range with no period

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ People who want a to-do list that doubles as a day schedule
- ✓ Phone-only planning without signing up
- ✓ Short focus sessions and routines on a timer

Worth knowing

- ⓘ Runs on iPhone and Android only; no web, Mac or Windows version is listed.
- ⓘ Repeating tasks, the week view, daily review and focus blocks are Pro features.
- ⓘ Tasks are stored on the phone, and the vendor mentions no sync between devices.
- ⓘ The Google Play listing shows only a price range for in-app purchases, with no billing period.

> From our grade for features

One timeline

Tasks, routines and appointments sit in order from wake-up to bedtime, with the free gaps between them visible.

Time blocks

Give a task a start and a length, then drag it to a new slot when plans change.

Inbox

Capture a task first and give it a time later.

Reminders

A task can remind you at its start or a few minutes before. Extra reminders and sounds are part of Pro.

Focus blocks

A focus timer counts down a started task, with Pomodoro or longer sessions and breaks. Focus blocks need Pro.

No account

The vendor says tasks are stored on the phone rather than on its servers, and no account is needed.

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

18/75

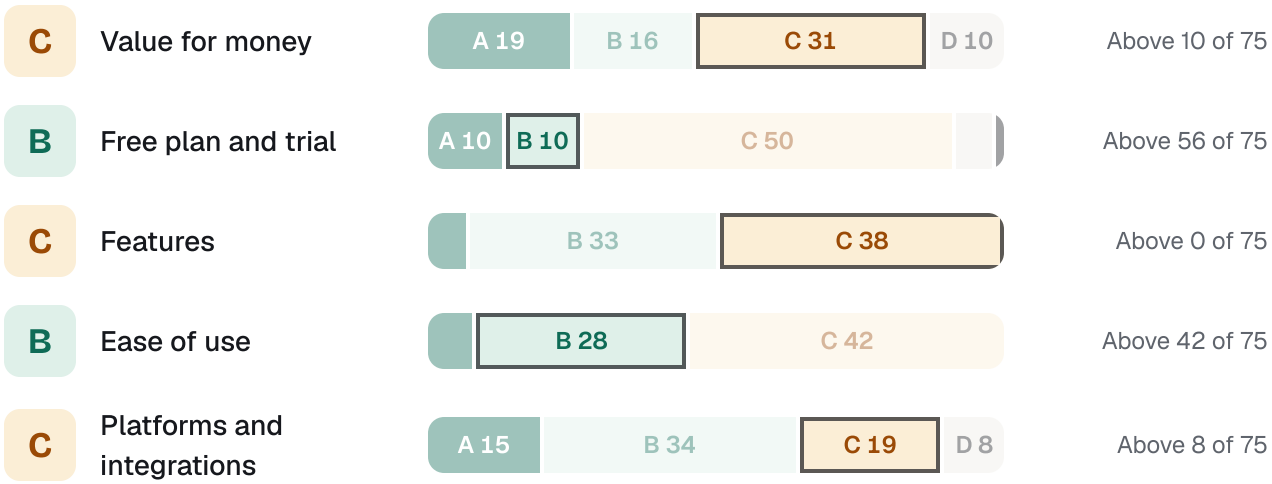

Other daily planner apps it is graded above

DayBoost's GPA of 2.4 is higher than 18 of the 75 other daily planner apps we grade, and level with 18.

It stands best on free plan and trial (B, above 56 of 75) and worst on features (C, above 0).

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Your call

A daily planner at its plainest is today's tasks laid along a timeline.

You could make the core of DayBoost for yourself: tasks, time blocking, Pomodoro timer and habit tracking. What you would give up is listed below. Whether that is worth the price is your call.

What you could make

- Tasks, time blocking, Pomodoro timer and habit tracking: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- A real app for iOS and Android. Something home-made would be a web page.

What this rests on. DayBoost's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
