Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

0/66

Other read-later and bookmark apps it is graded above

Dewey's GPA of 2.0 is higher than 0 of the 66 other read-later and bookmark apps we grade, and level with 5.

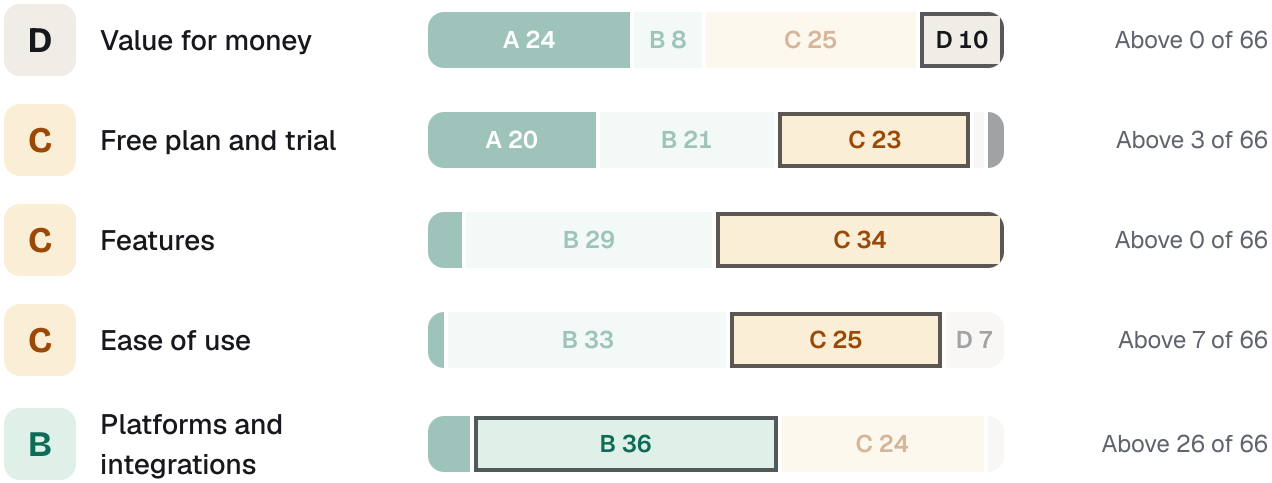

It stands best on platforms and integrations (B, above 26 of 66) and worst on value for money (D, above 0).

Its paid plans start at $7.50 a month, against a middle price of $3.33 for the category: 31 of the 37 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 25 tools score higher and cost less.

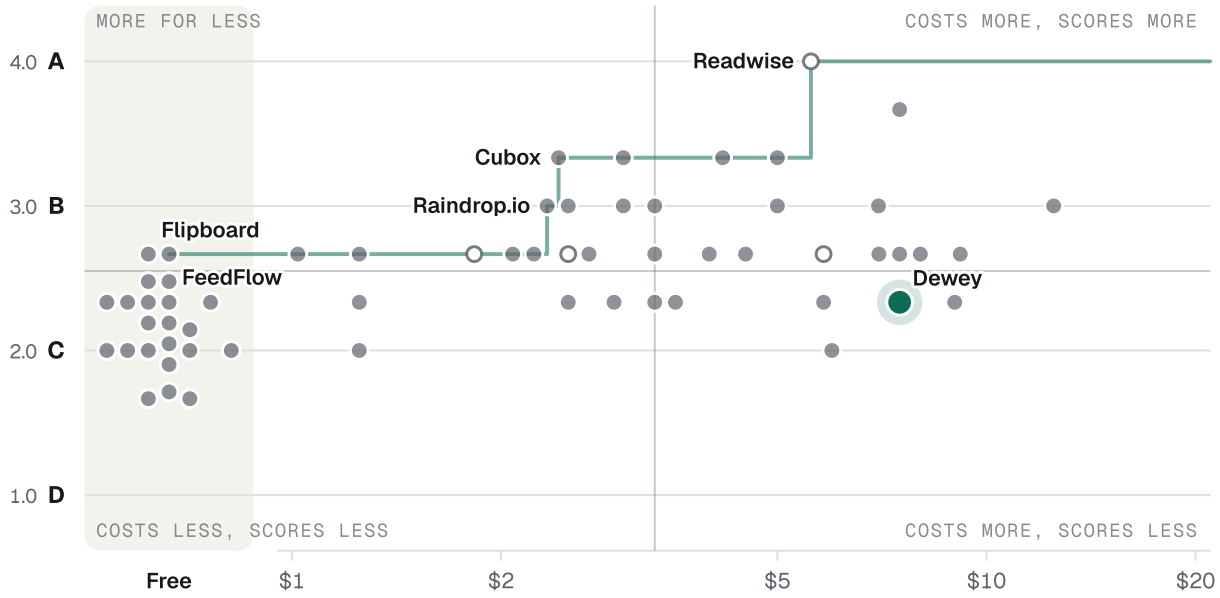

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 67 read-later and bookmark apps we grade, cut by the letter each got. Dewey's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

You could make this

A read-later list at its plainest is saved links with tags.

What Dewey does at its core is bookmarks and web clipper, and that is the kind of thing an AI app builder makes well. You would give up one thing, listed below, and little else. It costs $90 a year. An AI app builder starts at about $20 a month on our listings, and you only need it while you build.

What you could make

- Bookmarks and web clipper: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- AI features, unless you pay a model provider for each request yourself.

It runs in a browser, which is where something home-made would run too.

What this rests on. Dewey's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
