Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

31/133

Other to-do list apps it is graded above

Doit.im's GPA of 2.4 is higher than 31 of the 133 other to-do list apps we grade, and level with 21.

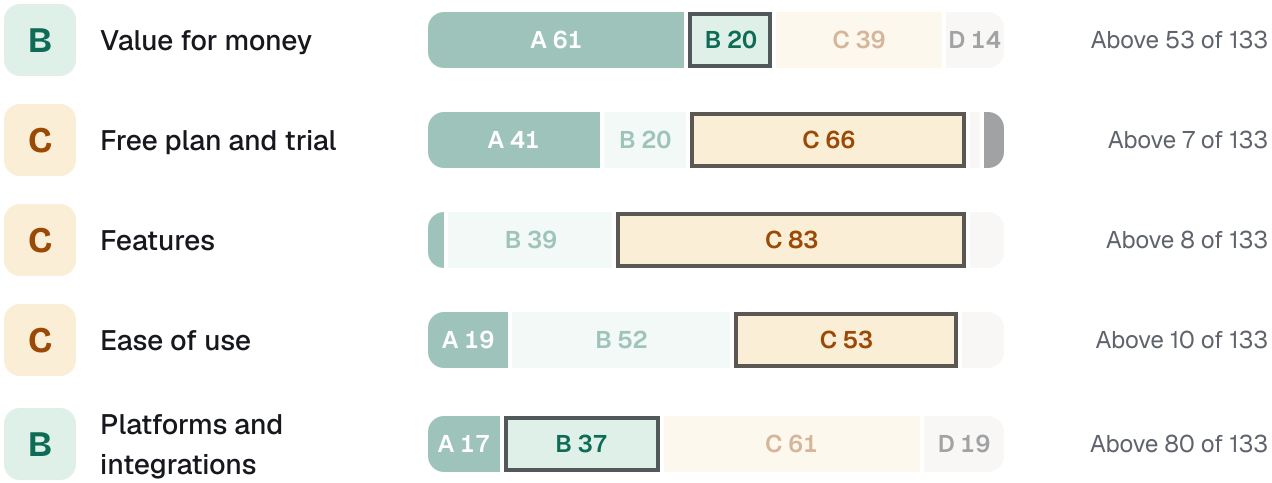

It stands best on platforms and integrations (B, above 80 of 133) and worst on free plan and trial (C, above 7).

Its paid plans start at $1.67 a month when paid by the year, against a middle price of $3 for the category: 11 of the 71 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 9 tools score higher and cost less.

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 134 to-do list apps we grade, cut by the letter each got. Doit.im's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 106 to-do list apps. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Doit.im is the marked dot.

What paid plans start at, a month (each step along is roughly double)

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Your call

A to-do list at its plainest is tasks with dates, repeats and a box to tick.

You could make the core of Doit.im for yourself: tasks, goals and calendar. What you would give up is listed below. Whether that is worth the price is your call. At $20 a year it costs less than the weekend it would take to replace, which is the argument for keeping it.

What you could make

- Tasks, goals and calendar: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- Apps for macOS, Windows, iOS and Android that stay in step with each other.

What this rests on. Doit.im's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
