Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

3.0

GPA, above 46 of the 66 other read-later and bookmark apps we grade

Kill the Newsletter gives you an email address and a matching Atom feed. Newsletters sent to that address show up as entries in the feed, so you can read them in an RSS reader instead of your inbox. It is free, and the source is on GitHub.

To get you started, here are 8 things to know about Kill the Newsletter, taken from its own pages and our grades.

4 Email address plus feed

Each feed comes with its own email address; mail sent there becomes an entry in the Atom feed.

5 Confirmation emails arrive as entries

Subscription confirmation messages are converted too, so you follow the confirmation link from your reader.

6 No tracking

The site says it does not track users.

7 A 3.0 GPA, above 46 of 66

That is against the other read-later and bookmark apps we grade, on value, the free plan, features, ease of use and platforms.

8 Keep it

Graded Nov 13, 2026

SUBJECT	GRADE	COMMENT
Value for money	A	Free to use, with no paid plan; the site links to donations. Against the reading category's $4 a month middle, nothing is charged.
Free plan and trial	A	Creating as many feeds as you want costs nothing.
Features	C	It does one job fully: an email address plus a feed, with confirmation emails arriving as entries and no tracking. It is a smaller job than a reader, and it can't reply to a publisher's confirmation request.
Ease of use	B	No store rating on record. You fill in a form on the home page and paste the feed address into a reader, with nothing to install.
Platforms and integrations	C	Web only, with no apps, and it relies on you having a feed reader. No integrations are listed.

Grade point average — Very good, out of 4.0 3.0

An A is worth 4 points, a B 3, a C 2, a D 1 and an F nothing. The GPA is the average of the five.

Who Kill the Newsletter is for

- ✓ Fits if you already use a feed reader and want newsletters out of your inbox
- ✓ Works for someone who wants no tracking on the newsletters they follow

Who it is not for

- ✗ Skip it if you do not have a feed reader
- ✗ Not for you if you need old issues: entries older than one month are deleted, sooner if a feed is large
- ✗ Watch out: a few newsletters cannot be subscribed to this way, and some publishers block its addresses
- ✗ Watch out: the feed address identifies your subscription, so the site says not to share it

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ People who already use a feed reader and want newsletters there
- ✓ Keeping newsletter subscriptions out of a personal inbox

Worth knowing

- ⓘ Entries older than one month are deleted, and older entries may be removed sooner to keep a feed under a size limit.
- ⓘ It cannot reply to a publisher's confirmation request, so a few newsletters cannot be subscribed to this way.
- ⓘ Some publishers block its addresses.
- ⓘ The feed address identifies your subscription, so the site says not to share it.

What it does

Its main features, where it runs, what it works with and who makes it

1

Place it runs: Web

Turns email newsletters into Atom feeds for your feed reader. Here is what it does, as its own site describes it, and what it covers: open source, rSS reader.

> It does one job fully: an email address plus a feed, with confirmation emails arriving as entries and no tracking.
> From our grade for features

Email address plus feed

Each feed comes with its own email address; mail sent there becomes an entry in the Atom feed.

Confirmation emails arrive as entries

Subscription confirmation messages are converted too, so you follow the confirmation link from your reader.

No tracking

The site says it does not track users.

Feed settings in each entry

Every entry ends with a link to manage the feed, including deleting it.

Where it runs

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

46/66

Other read-later and bookmark apps it is graded above

Kill the Newsletter's GPA of 3.0 is higher than 46 of the 66 other read-later and bookmark apps we grade, and level with 14.

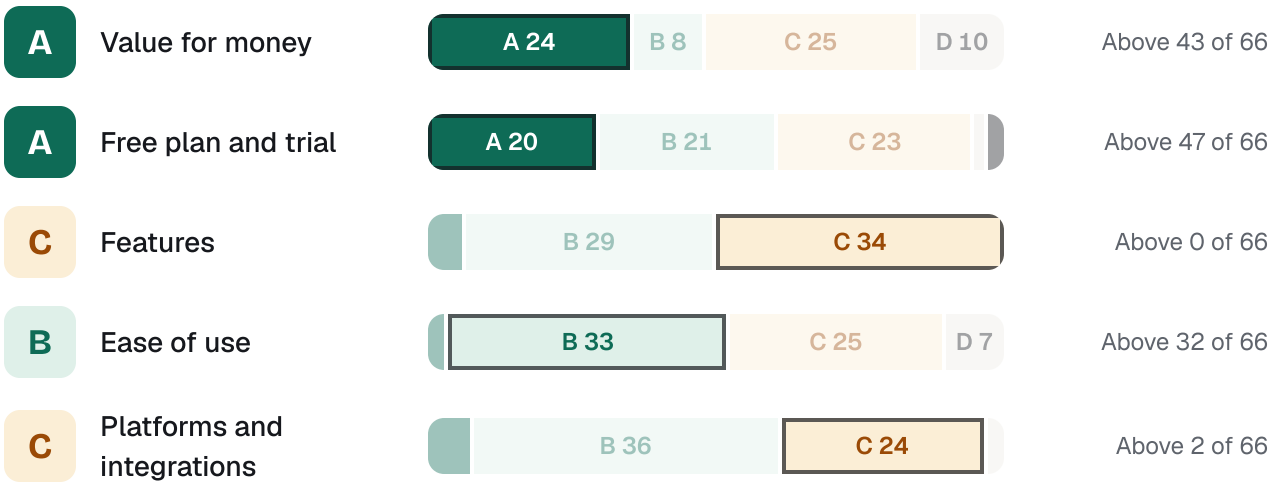

It stands best on free plan and trial (A, above 47 of 66) and worst on features (C, above 0).

Kill the Newsletter has no paid plan.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. Nothing scores higher for less, though at least one tool matches that score at a lower price.

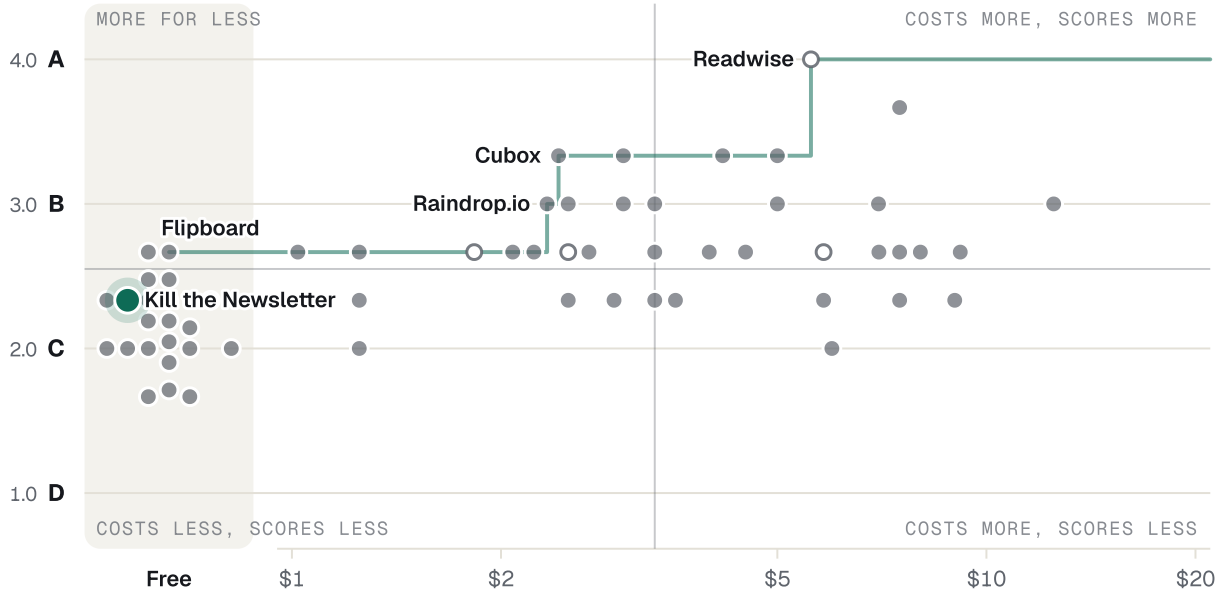

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 67 read-later and bookmark apps we grade, cut by the letter each got. Kill the Newsletter's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 60 read-later and bookmark apps. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Kill the Newsletter is the marked dot.

What paid plans start at, a month (each step along is roughly double)

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

Kill the Newsletter is free, so making your own would save you nothing.

It is one of the better ones too: its GPA of 3.0 is higher than 46 of the 66 other read-later and bookmark apps we grade.

What you could make

- RSS reader: an app builder makes this well.

What this rests on. Kill the Newsletter's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
