2.2

GPA, above 56 of the 148 other form and survey tools we grade

Pageclip collects submissions from an HTML form so a site needs no server of its own. Data can be received by email, exported as CSV or JSON, or sent to Slack, and there is a JavaScript call for sending data from a page. Plans are priced by the number of sites, forms and monthly submissions.

To get you started, here are 9 things to know about Pageclip, taken from its own pages and our grades.

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

You could make this

A form at its plainest is questions, a button and a table of answers.

What Pageclip does at its core is forms, and that is the kind of thing an AI app builder makes well. You would give up one thing, listed below, and little else. It costs $108 a year. An AI app builder starts at about $20 a month on our listings, and you only need it while you build.

What you could make

- Forms: an app builder makes this well.

What you could not

- It plugs into other products, Slack among them, and has an API.

It runs in a browser, which is where something home-made would run too.

What this rests on. Pageclip's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
