PART 04 · STANDING

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

20/89

Other AI meeting note takers it is graded above

Rimo's GPA of 2.2 is higher than 20 of the 89 other AI meeting note takers we grade, and level with 27.

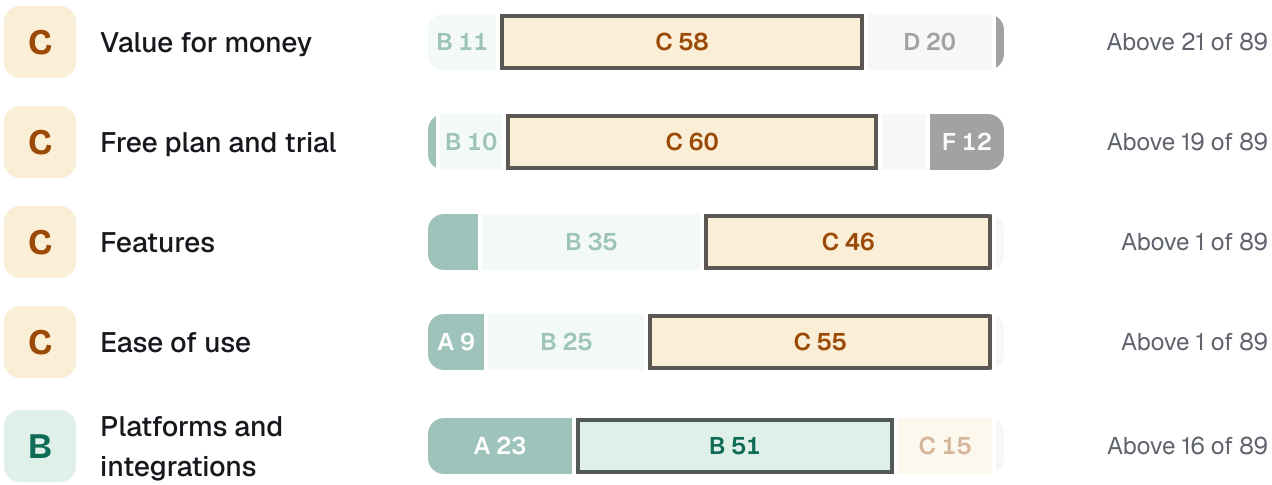

It stands best on platforms and integrations (B, above 16 of 89) and worst on features (C, above 1).

Its paid plans start at $9 a month, against a middle price of $12 for the category: 22 of the 76 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 17 tools score higher and cost less.

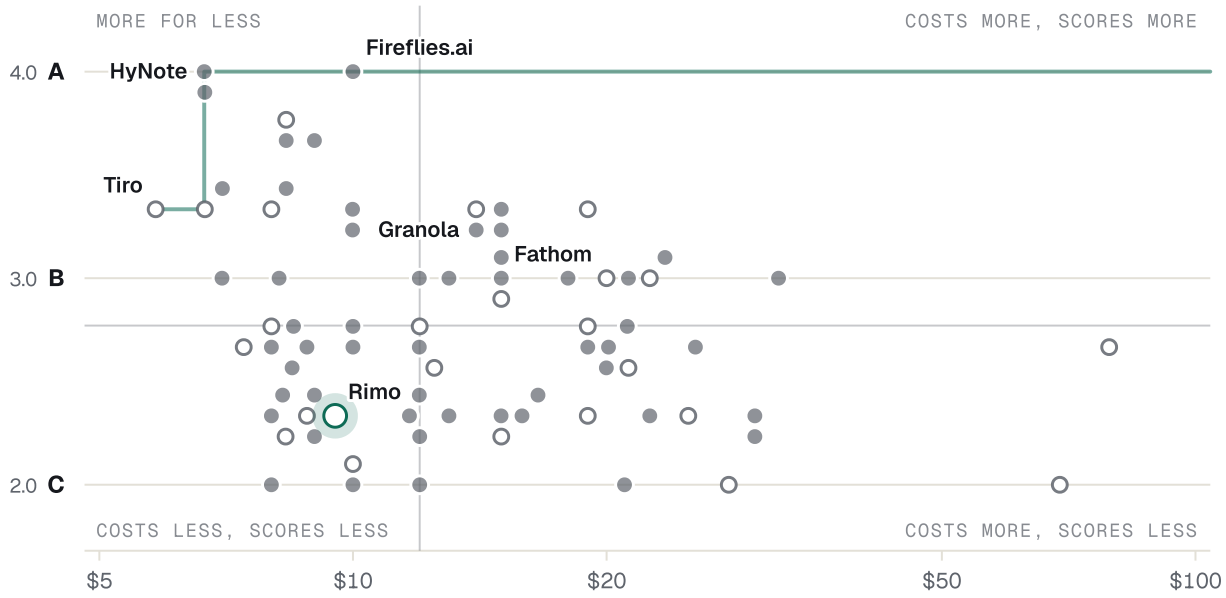

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 90 AI meeting note takers we grade, cut by the letter each got. Rimo's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 77 AI meeting note takers. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Rimo is the marked dot.

What paid plans start at, a month (each step along is roughly double)

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

To replace Rimo you would be making a bot that joins your calls and turns the talk into notes. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

That makes this kind of software worth paying for, not this one in particular: 42 of the 89 other AI meeting note takers grade higher. It costs $108 a year.

What you could not

- ✕ A bot that joins your calls and turns the talk into notes.
- ✕ An AI model, which you can rent by the request but not make.

- ✕ Speech turned into text you can trust.
- ✕ A real app for iOS and Android. Something home-made would be a web page.
- ✕ Several people working in it at the same moment.
- ✕ It plugs into other products, Microsoft Teams, Zoom and Google Meet among them.
- ✕ What a company asks for before it lets staff use something: single sign-on and audit logs.

What this rests on. Rimo's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
