Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

9/49

Other password managers it is graded above

Secrets's GPA of 2.2 is higher than 9 of the 49 other password managers we grade, and level with 8.

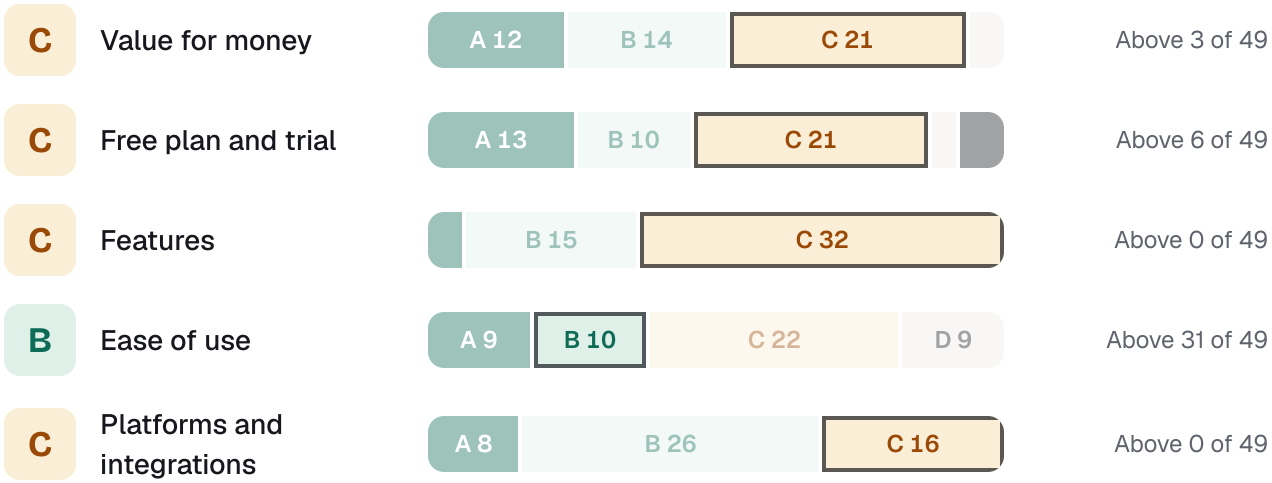

It stands best on ease of use (B, above 31 of 49) and worst on features (C, above 0).

Its paid plans start at $2.50 a month when paid by the year, against a middle price of $2.50 for the category: 13 of the 29 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 10 tools score higher and cost less.

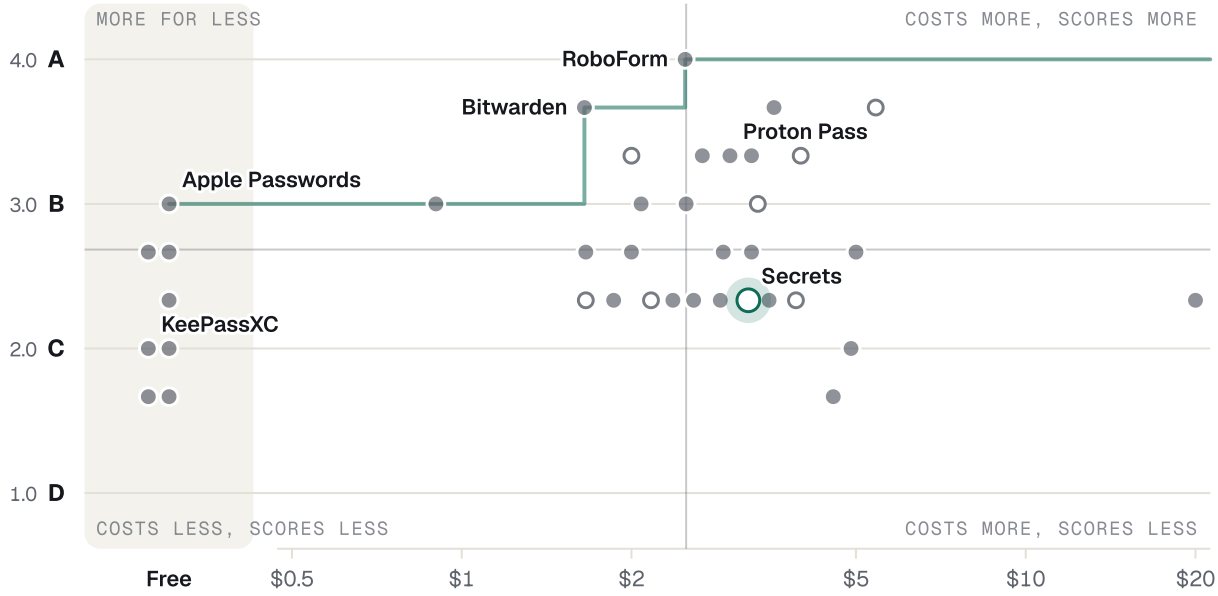

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 50 password managers we grade, cut by the letter each got. Secrets's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 38 password managers. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Secrets is the marked dot.

What paid plans start at, a month (each step along is roughly double)

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

To replace Secrets you would be making a password vault, the last thing anyone should make for themselves. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

That makes this kind of software worth paying for, not this one in particular: 32 of the 49 other password managers grade higher. It costs $29.99 a year.

What you could not

- ✕ A password vault, the last thing anyone should make for themselves.
- ✕ Passkeys, which rest on security you cannot improvise.

- ✕ Apps for macOS and iOS that stay in step with each other.
- ✕ It plugs into other products, iCloud, 1Password and LastPass among them.
- ✕ Hooks into the device itself: an Apple Watch app.

What this rests on. Secrets's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
