Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

1.6

GPA, above 0 of the 60 other browsers we grade

Sizzy is a desktop browser for web developers that shows many devices side by side with scrolling, clicks and typing kept in sync. It adds project workspaces, isolated sessions, a debugging panel, screenshot and recording tools, terminals and a panel for coding agents. It is sold monthly, yearly or as a one-time license, with every feature on every plan.

> Coding agents run through your own Claude Code or Codex setup.
> From our report card of Sizzy

To get you started, here are 8 things to know about Sizzy, taken from its own pages and our grades.

1 Best for a developer browser with synced device previews

Sizzy is a Chromium browser for developers with many device previews on one canvas, project workspaces and a debugging panel.

2 Paid plans start at $12 a month

As its pricing page puts it: $12 per month, billed annually ($15 billed monthly).

3 It runs on 3 platforms

macOS, Windows and Linux.

4 Devices on one canvas

Real device sizes and user agents sit side by side, and scrolling, clicks, typing and navigation stay in sync until sync is switched off.

5 Project workspaces

Each project keeps its URLs, devices, sessions, notes, snippets and terminals, plus its repo path, dev command and editor.

6 Isolated sessions

Cookies, cache and storage are kept separate per session, so you can test as an admin, a customer and a guest at once.

7 A 1.6 GPA, above 0 of 60

That is against the other browsers we grade, on value, the free plan, features, ease of use and platforms.

8 Keep it

To replace Sizzy you would be making a web browser. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

The report card

Best for a developer browser with synced device previews

Sizzy is a Chromium browser for developers with many device previews on one canvas, project workspaces and a debugging panel. There is no free plan or trial, and it costs $12 a month on yearly billing or $499 once. Coding agents run through your own Claude Code or Codex setup.

TOOLGPA REPORT CARD — Sizzy — Graded Nov 13, 2026

SUBJECT	GRADE	COMMENT
Value for money	C	$12 a month billed yearly, between the category's $10 middle and $19.99 dearer quarter. Lifetime is $499, over two years of a typical $10 a month.
Free plan and trial	F	No free plan and no free trial on the pricing page.
Features	C	Devices on one canvas, project workspaces, isolated sessions, a debug panel, screenshots and terminals. It is a developer tool, and the coding agents need separate CLIs.
Ease of use	C	No store rating on record, and projects, sessions and agent CLIs take setting up.
Platforms and integrations	C	Desktop only: macOS, Windows and Linux, linking GitHub, Vercel, Coolify, Claude Code and Codex.

Grade point average — Weak, out of 4.0 — 1.6

An A is worth 4 points, a B 3, a C 2, a D 1 and an F nothing. The GPA is the average of the five.

Who Sizzy is for

- ✓ Fits if you are a front-end developer who wants every device in one workspace
- ✓ Works for developers who run coding agents next to the preview

Who it is not for

- ✕ Skip it if you want to try before paying, as there is no free plan and no trial
- ✕ Pricey if you want a free option, as free tools like Responsively cover device previews
- ✕ Watch out: coding agents run through your own Claude Code or Codex CLI, billed by those providers
- ✕ Not for you if you want a phone app, as it is desktop only

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ Front-end developers who test across many screen sizes
- ✓ Developers who want terminals, notes and devices per project in one window
- ✓ People who would rather pay once than subscribe

Worth knowing

- ⓘ There is no free plan and no free trial on the pricing page.
- ⓘ Coding agents run through the Claude Code or Codex CLI you install, and those providers bill model usage under your own plan.
- ⓘ It is a desktop developer tool for macOS, Windows and Linux, with no mobile version.
- ⓘ Checkout and licenses are handled on a separate portal site, and the page says regional pricing is shown at checkout.

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

0/60

Other browsers it is graded above

Sizzy's GPA of 1.6 is higher than 0 of the 60 other browsers we grade, and level with 2.

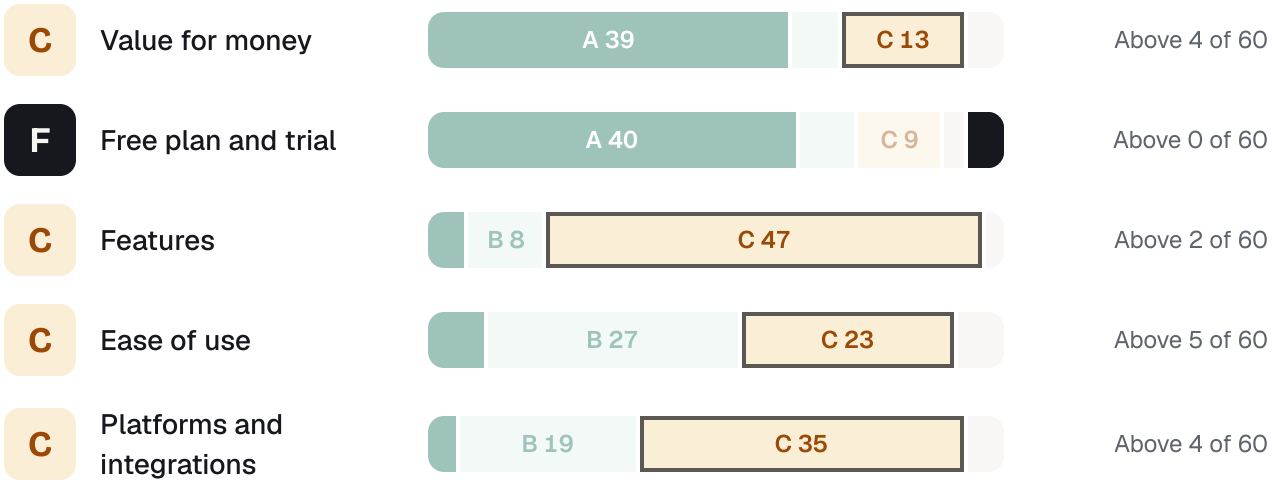

It stands best on ease of use (C, above 5 of 60) and worst on free plan and trial (F, above 0).

Its paid plans start at $12 a month, against a middle price of $9.50 for the category: 12 of the 19 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.0 out of 4. 31 tools score higher and cost less.

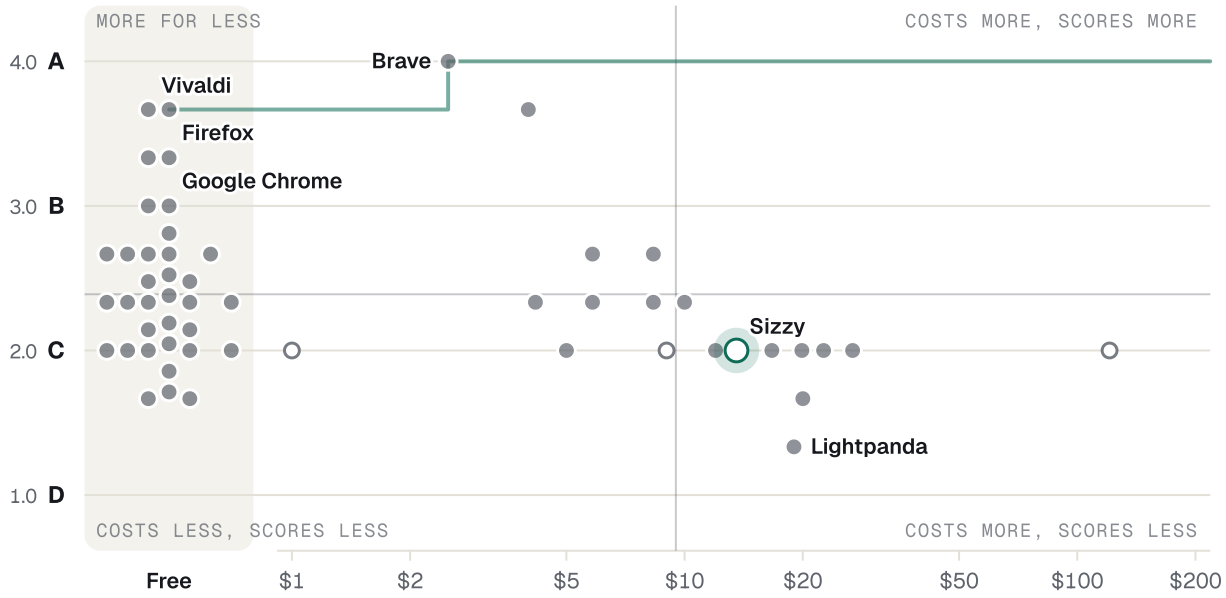

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 61 browsers we grade, cut by the letter each got. Sizzy's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 54 browsers. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. Sizzy is the marked dot.

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

To replace Sizzy you would be making a web browser. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

That makes this kind of software worth paying for, not this one in particular: 58 of the 60 other browsers grade higher. It costs $144 a year.

What you could not

- ✕ A web browser.
- ✕ Capture tools hooked into the operating system.
- ✕ Recording the screen with its sound, and somewhere to keep the video.

- ✕ Apps for macOS, Windows and Linux that stay in step with each other.
- ✕ It plugs into other products, GitHub, Vercel and Coolify among them.

What this rests on. Sizzy's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
