Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

2.4

GPA, above 41 of the 98 other time tracking apps we grade

timr is a time tracking service from the German company troii Software that covers working hours, vacation and absences, project time and a tax-oriented mileage log. Staff can record time in a browser, in iPhone and Android apps, or on a kiosk app for Android tablets. Pricing is a per-user rate with optional paid add-ons.

To get you started, here are 9 things to know about timr, taken from its own pages and our grades.

> Overtime and surcharge accounts cost extra, admins need a full licence, and it doesn't renew automatically.
> From our report card of timr

1 Best for freelancers and small firms tracking time and mileage

timr covers working time, projects and a mileage log, with a free plan for one user and one function.

2 Paid plans start at about $8.04 a month for each person

As its pricing page puts it: €7.20 per user / month, billed annually (€8 billed monthly).

3 There is a free plan

Free plan for 1 user with one function of your choice: working time, project time or drive log, each with limits.

4 It runs on 3 platforms

Web, iOS and Android.

5 Working time recording

Working time types and models, automatic breaks, time accounts, flexitime and monthly closing with export.

6 Vacation and absence management

Absence types with a request function, vacation accounts, substitute management, holiday calendars and an absence calendar.

7 Project time tracking

Project and task structures with task permissions, approval and invoicing of project times, and location-based task suggestions.

8 A 2.4 GPA, above 41 of 98

That is against the other time tracking apps we grade, on value, the free plan, features, ease of use and platforms.

9 Keep it

Who timr is for

- ✓ Fits if you want to try it as one person on the free plan
- ✓ Works for small firms that want time, projects and mileage in one tool

Who it is not for

- ✗ Tight if you want more than one function on the free plan
- ✗ Pricey if you need overtime accounts, at EUR 21.60 each
- ✗ Watch out: admins need a full paid licence even if they don't track time
- ✗ Watch out: it doesn't renew automatically, so you pay in advance for a set term, and prices are in euros only

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ German-speaking companies that want one system for hours, absences and mileage
- ✓ Mobile crews that clock in on phones or a shared tablet kiosk
- ✓ Single users trying the free plan with one function

Worth knowing

- ⓘ Prices are listed in euros only; no dollar prices are shown.
- ⓘ Overtime and surcharge accounts cost €21.60 per account; workflows and permissions, and automatic capping, €17.10 each.
- ⓘ Admins need a full paid license even if they do not record time.
- ⓘ timr does not renew automatically; you pay in advance for a term of 1, 3 or 6 months or longer.

PART 04 · STANDING

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

41/98

Other time tracking apps it is graded above

timr's GPA of 2.4 is higher than 41 of the 98 other time tracking apps we grade, and level with 24.

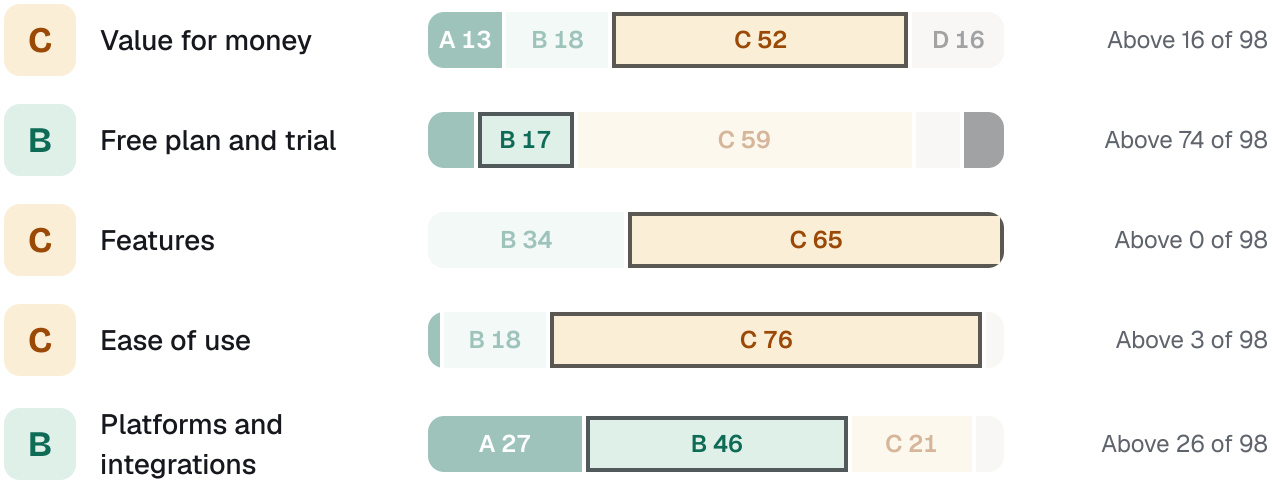

It stands best on free plan and trial (B, above 74 of 98) and worst on features (C, above 0).

Its paid plans start at about $8.04 a month for each person, against a middle price of $6.99 for the category: 49 of the 80 others that charge start lower.

On features, ease of use and platforms it scores 2.3 out of 4. 28 tools score higher and cost less.

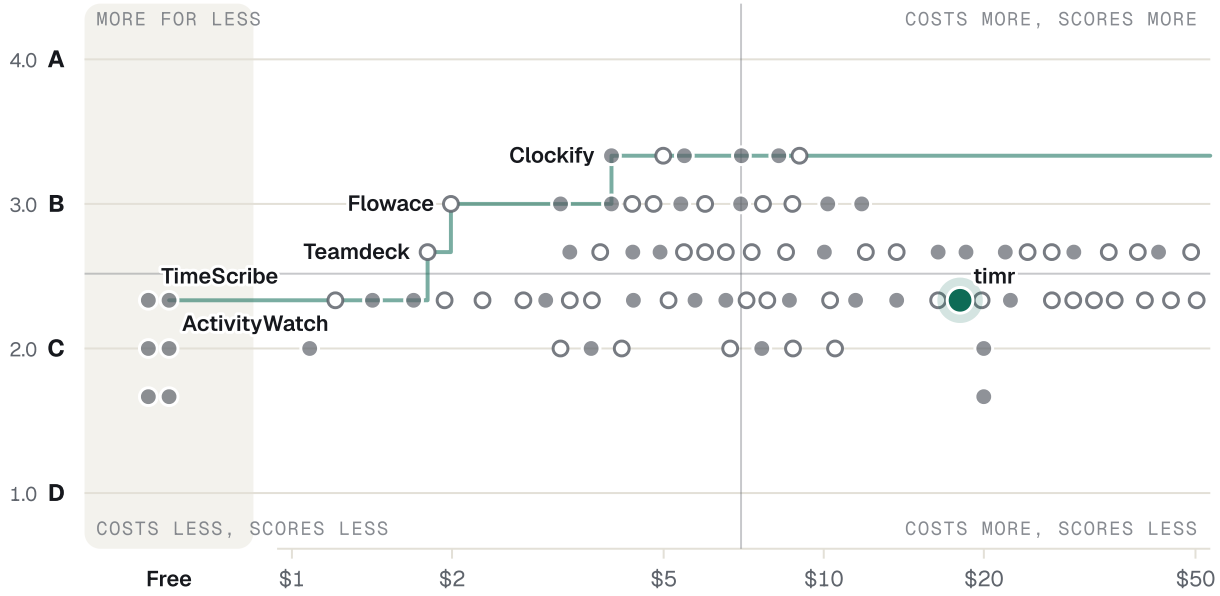

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 99 time tracking apps we grade, cut by the letter each got. timr's own letter is outlined.

Price against what you get

Each dot is one of 87 time tracking apps. Further left costs less; higher up scores better on features, ease of use and platforms. timr is the marked dot.

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

The plain part of timr you could make: time tracking, time off and reports. What surrounds it you could not. The 5 things listed below take a company, not a weekend.

It costs $96.53 a year.

What you could make

- Time tracking, time off and reports: an app builder makes these well.

What you could not

- Clocking in from a phone, checked against where and when.

- A real app for iOS and Android. Something home-made would be a web page.
- It is priced for each person, which means accounts and billing for a team.
- It plugs into other products, Personio and Slack among them, and has an API.
- What a company asks for before it lets staff use something: roles and permissions.

What this rests on. timr's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
