Welcome

What it is, who it suits, its grades and the ten things to know first

2.0

GPA, above 26 of the 101 other AI agents we grade

Wordware is a browser editor where a prompt written in plain English becomes a flow of AI steps, such as generation, loops, conditions and tool calls. Flows can be run, published and called through an API. The company now puts its newer assistant, Sauna, first on its main site.

To get you started, here are 8 things to know about Wordware, taken from its own pages and our grades.

> No store rating on record, and building a flow means writing prompts and wiring nodes.
> From our grade for ease of use

1 Best for writing AI workflows as plain-English prompts

Wordware lets you build AI workflows by writing them in plain English, with a start-for-free sign-up whose limits are not published.

2 There is a free plan

The product page offers a Start for free sign-up; its limits are not published on a page that could be read.

3 It runs on Web

Web.

4 Prompt-based editor

Everything typed into the editor is a prompt. Typing a slash adds a node, and each flow is both the documentation and the program.

5 Flow nodes

The docs list Generation, Structured Generation, Loop, If-Else, Code execution, Tool, Ask a Human and other node types for building a flow step by step.

6 Triggers and actions

Flows can start from a trigger such as a new form response and then act in connected apps, for example posting a message to Slack.

7 A 2.0 GPA, above 26 of 101

That is against the other AI agents we grade, on value, the free plan, features, ease of use and platforms.

8 Keep it

To replace Wordware you would be making an AI agent, with the models and the safeguards behind it. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

An A is worth 4 points, a B 3, a C 2, a D 1 and an F nothing. The GPA is the average of the five.

Who Wordware is for

- ✓ Fits if you want to describe a workflow in plain English and run it
- ✓ Makes sense if you want to start free and see how far it goes

Who it is not for

- ✕ Watch out: the main site now leads with Sauna and links the editor as Wordware v1
- ✕ Not for you if you want a price, as the pricing link returns a not-found error
- ✕ Watch out: the company's own story, dated October 2025, describes a shift in focus
- ✕ Tight if you need limits spelled out, since the free sign-up lists none

Good to know

Good for

- ✓ Builders who want to describe an AI workflow in prose rather than code
- ✓ Teams prototyping lead qualification or research flows that call several models

Worth knowing

- ⓘ The pricing link on the product page returns a not-found error, so no plan prices could be read and none are listed.
- ⓘ The main wordware.ai site now leads with Sauna, a separate assistant product, and links the original Wordware editor as Wordware v1.
- ⓘ The company's story page, dated October 2025, describes a shift in focus; check that the editor is still sold before building on it.

What it costs

Every plan, the free plan, ways to pay less and how prices have moved

Wordware's current pricing could not be confirmed from its own site.

> No plan prices could be read: the pricing link on the product page returns a not-found error.
> From our grade for value for money

We could not confirm Wordware's current prices from its own site, so this guide lists no plans. wordware.ai has them.

What it does

Its main features, where it runs, what it works with and who makes it

1

Place it runs: Web

Build AI workflows and agents by writing them in plain English. Here is what it does, as its own site describes it, and what it covers: public API, AI features, workflow automation, AI agents, no-code.

> A prompt-based editor, flow nodes, triggers, publishing and many model providers.
> From our grade for features

Prompt-based editor

Everything typed into the editor is a prompt. Typing a slash adds a node, and each flow is both the documentation and the program.

Flow nodes

The docs list Generation, Structured Generation, Loop, If-Else, Code execution, Tool, Ask a Human and other node types for building a flow step by step.

Triggers and actions

Flows can start from a trigger such as a new form response and then act in connected apps, for example posting a message to Slack.

Publish and deploy

A finished flow can be published and called through an API, and flows can call other flows.

Many model providers

The product page example flow mixes Perplexity, Claude and GPT models inside one workflow.

Perplexity

Wordware is made by Wordware, and has been around since 2023.

Where it stands

Its grades against its category, and whether to keep it or make your own

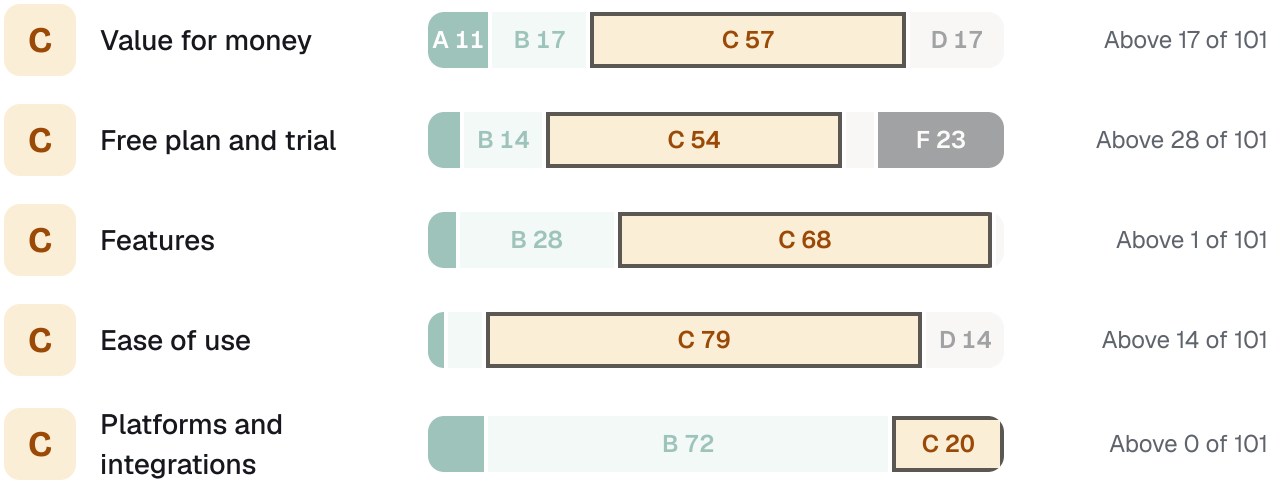

26/101

Other AI agents it is graded above

Wordware's GPA of 2.0 is higher than 26 of the 101 other AI agents we grade, and level with 9.

Each grade against the category

Every bar is all 102 AI agents we grade, cut by the letter each got. Wordware's own letter is outlined.

Keep it, or make your own?

Whether this is something you could build for yourself with an AI app builder, and what you would give up.

Keep it

To replace Wordware you would be making an AI agent, with the models and the safeguards behind it. That is not a weekend's work, with an AI app builder or without one.

That makes this kind of software worth paying for, not this one in particular: 66 of the 101 other AI agents grade higher.

What you could not

- ✕ An AI agent, with the models and the safeguards behind it.
- ✕ Connections to other products, each kept working as those products change.
- ✕ A builder that other people can use without writing code.

What this rests on. Wordware's listing: what it does, where it runs, what it plugs into and what it costs. It is a judgement about the kind of software this is. We have not built a replacement for it, and making your own means looking after it too. How we decide, and every tool's verdict.
